GRAYLING 4, BOYNE CITY 3

SUNDAY GAME PLAYED IN RAIN.
GOOD ATTENDANCE.

Threatening rain did not keep all the base ball fans away from the Grayling-Boyne City game played here Sunday afternoon. There was a good attendance and the players did not intend that they go away disappointed so they pulled off the match in spite of the weather. It rained quite hard but the game went on and resulted in a score of 4 to 3 in favor of Grayling.

Those who attended speak in the highest praise of Grayling's team. This is the first game played on the home lot and thus the first time afforded the home people to look them over, and they looked mighty good. Johnson pitched a good game and had 12 strikeouts. Lee Seymour was quite a surprise behind the bat. He caught an exceptionally good game. The team on the whole played with good teamwork, and had the ground and the ball and players' gloves not been wet a still faster game might have been played.

The score was 4 to 3. Boyne City had a team that was a good match for Grayling and put up a good contest. It was a good exhibition all over and through the game the crowd refused to be frightened over the downpour of rain. The line-up and score was as follows: Seymour, c; Johnson, p; Milnes, 1b; Insley, 2b; Close, 3b; Karpus, ss; Lawrent, lf; Hull, cf; Doroh, rf.

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 r. h. e.
Grayling 0 0 0 0 4 0 0 0 x-4-8-3
Boyne City 0 0 2 0 0 0 0 1-3-4-3

Grayling got eight hits while Johnson held the visitors to four hits. Three passes and a fumble on the part of Insley in the 3rd let in two runs. The visitors scored again in the 9th. Grayling's big inning was in the 5th when they ran in four scores, and winning the game.

In the last inning the visitors had the bases full and only one out but Johnson retired the side by striking out the next two men up. Each pitcher had twelve strikeouts to his credit.

THE FORTY-FOUR HOUR WEEK.

The Consumer Will Pay.

"There can be little question that the general adoption of a 48 hour week in the metal trades would involve a serious economic loss to the nation," says Bulletin No. 18 of the National Industrial conference board. In the face of accumulated facts and data which conclusively show that living costs are made higher through decreased production while wages ascend, the radical element in the unions, and particularly among the union machinists, are agitating the forty-four hour week as a wage increase proposition, since all overtime would have to be paid over a basic 44 hour schedule. "The so-called eight-hour day always has been a fiction for the purpose of securing increased wages," say the National Founders' association in its weekly letter No. 75, and the limitation of eight hours was only used because it seemed impossible at the time to secure a shorter working day, because the unions were powerless to enforce a shorter working day, and the public would have resented it."

The American Federation of Labor at its recent convention declared in favor of a forty-four hour week, because the unions believe that they have arrived at a condition of power which will enable them to enforce whatever they demand. The forty-four hour week, with a double time overtime, is a direct incentive to slacking. This was demonstrated during the war when the National War Labor board imposed restrictions that, unless a full day's work was given for six days in the week, no overtime penalty could be collected. That restriction does not apply at the present time, and a man who is able to get double pay for over-time will feel that it is unnecessary to work a full week. Thus production will be further decreased, prices necessarily increased and the labor situation will become almost intolerable.

A seven hour day is suggested as a possibility in the near future, and the following except from the council report adopted at the American Federation of Labor convention should be borne in mind:

"There is no doubt but that in the near future many organizations will determine that, in order to take care of all their members gaining a livelihood by employment at their trades, it will be necessary to inaugurate a six hour day."

Six hours a day, five days a week is the demand which the Union mine is making, and representatives of the Indiana State Federation of Labor have already canvassed the State urging all unions to get in line for a thirty hour week. Over and above all this chaotic agitation, is the fact that labor, as such, is not demanding these things, but a few radical labor union leaders are for the purpose of gaining control over industry and labor. Who but the consumer will pay?

BUREAU ADVERTISING IS FAR-REACHING.

Every little while something occurs to show how far reaching is the advertising campaign which the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau has carried on for years, the main object of which was to attract settlers to the counties in the bureau and to help develop this section of the state.

This advertising has consisted of taking space in newspapers, displays at state fairs in this and adjoining states and the sending of an automobile through several states, equipped with a display of products from Northeastern Michigan and accompanied by a lecturer, who was capable of telling of the opportunities the district offered.

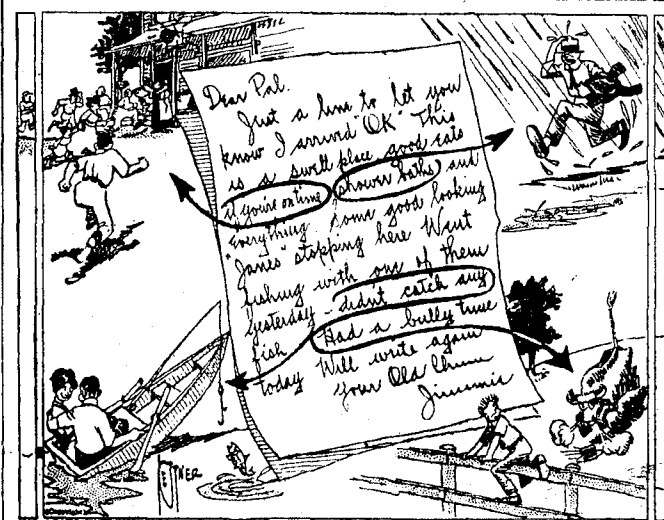

It is known that hundreds of settlers have been secured in this way.

RED CROSS CHAPTER PROVIDES NURSE

MISS LARVE WILL GIVE ENTIRE TIME TO PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING.

Crawford County Chapter has engaged the services of Miss Lois Larve as public health nurse who will devote her entire time in the interest of community health. Miss Larve, a graduate nurse, has just completed a special course at Ann Arbor for this service, which course includes sever-

but probably the best example of how far-reaching this advertising has been occurred last week when Fred J. West, of Hamilton county, Indiana, walked into the office of Secretary Marston, of the bureau, and announced that he had come to Michigan with his family and all his goods, intending to stay in Indiana in 1920. "That was result of advertising done by the bureau when it sent its automobile through Indiana in 1910. "That was nine years ago and at that time I made up my mind to come to Michigan to live just as soon as I could do so and here I am."

Mr. West has been an Indiana farmer, operating on rented land, and he is planning to get into the stock raising game in Northeastern Michigan but he wants to make sure of his ground before locating permanently and is planning on renting a farm or working one on shares for a year or two, so as to get "rock bottom facts," and to be sure that he likes the state, before securing a permanent location.

al weeks active work under direction of the Board of health of Detroit where she has acquired the practical work in this line and finished her training with a splendid record to her credit.

Nurses working in this capacity are known as American Red Cross public health nurses and are usually community nurses—that is they do one or all kinds of public health nursing including prenatal care; infant welfare work; tuberculosis school and general visiting nursing. Frequently they form clubs among children and older people and teach the Red Cross home nursing classes.

Nurses in this capacity demand salaries of from $1,200 to $1,800 per year and expenses. Miss Larve has been engaged by the Red Cross for a period of six months at the rate of $1,500 per year. The county Red Cross organization hope to be able to demonstrate the value of such a nurse within six months so that the County

MONTANA LIVESTOCK FOR N. E. MICHIGAN.

Secretary Marston, who attended the conference at St. Paul called by the agricultural department to devise plans for the relief of stockmen in Montana and adjoining states, learned so much of the unfavorable conditions under which the men are operating in the districts where there have been no rains in two years that he left, early last week, for Miles City and Billings, Mont., where he planned to remain a week or more, getting in personal touch with stockmen and calling their attention to what Northeastern Michigan offers in the way of range for sheep and cattle what stockmen have already done in the district and the vast amount of range which they can secure.

He believes that he will be successful in getting many of these men to move at least a part of their herds to territory where there is always grass and water.

ACT QUICKLY.

Do the right thing at the right time.

Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Plenty of evidence of their worth in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mary Marsh, Fifth St., West Branch, Mich., says: "I had considerable trouble from weak kidneys. My back ached intensely and when I stopped I had such sharp pains in my back it took away my breath. My eyes bothered me a great deal and frequently I had dizzy spells. Nothing helped me until I gave Doan's Kidney pills a trial. The first box of Doan's made me feel like a different person and three boxes cured me of the kidney weakness and pains in my back."

The World's Next Step

NO. 1
The League of Nations and the Progress of Civilization

BY CLARENCE L. SPEED

(Written for and Approved by the Illinois Branch of League to Enforce Peace.)
The world's next step is to be the formation of a league of nations. Tentative plans for this constitution have been approved at the peace conference. Representatives of fourteen of the greatest governments in the world have agreed on the tentative details. Reports indicate that delegates from other nations assembled at Paris to fix on the terms for ending the great war are ready to sign a treaty creating a league of nations. Even the defeated nations approve the idea if not the details. It may be taken now as a foregone conclusion that the world as a whole has decided to act in concert, to organize to prevent wars in future, to protect the weak and prevent aggression by the strong.

Since the dawn of history the world has been progressing logically toward this step, though faltering and with many slips backward. From the prehistoric times when it was every man for himself, down through the ages when small tribes despoiled their neighbors, when despots of the ancient world struggled for mastery, when feudal lords who were little more than robbers made wars for booty, to the development of the modern nations as they stood five years ago, man had slowly been learning that he could not live for himself alone, but must depend on the co-operation of his neighbors.

Slowly, very slowly, the ideas of right and justice as we now understand them grew up. Primitive man learned that to protect himself he had to live in accord with his neighbors. But his neighbors then were the few of his fellow beings who lived in his immediate vicinity. They were separated from others by wide stretches of jungle, plain or swamp.

As human population increased "neighbors" came to mean all the members of great tribes, and finally all citizens of a nation.

But scientific progress outstripped for a time mankind's social progress. The discovery of electricity, the telegraph, the wireless, the flying machine, which made the world a neighborhood. Trade was carried on from one end of the world to the other. No nation could live an independent life. Failure of the cotton crop in Texas meant privation and suffering in Manchester; a change in the tariff laws of the United States might mean great distress in far distant countries. Nevertheless the nations of the earth continued to act entirely independently, each looking for its own selfish interests without regard for the interests of the remainder of the world.

The individual in every civilized country had long ago recognized the justice of the limitation of his rights. He no longer claimed the privilege of going out and killing an enemy with whom he had disagreed; of stealing his neighbor's property just because he wanted it; of enslaving his fellows, of fighting duels, of carrying concealed weapons.

He gave up all these ancient privileges and depended on his government for protection. He did so in spite of the fact that there were individuals in every land who refused to do likewise. He suffered at times from the thief, the robber, the murderer; yet as the centuries went by he took the law into his own hands less and less frequently, until before the great war broke over the world the greater part of the earth's surface was settled, orderly, safe.

Yet it never seemed to occur to these same men who had submitted to so much curtailment of their individual privileges that there might ever be any joint exercise of power by all of the states of which they severally happened to be citizens. Nations built up huge armies and navies, glared at each other across frontiers, seized the lands of weak or undeveloped peoples, and exploited conquered territories for their own benefit.

True, some countries, notably England, which held subject colonies in all parts of the earth, and the United States, which only recently had rather unwillingly accepted responsibilities in the Philippines, had reached a stage of development where they no longer considered it the proper thing to exploit dependent peoples, yet the sentiment was far from general. Land grabbing was the accepted practice. Peaceful civilization was held back by the necessity of devoting so much of the resources of every land to preparation for a struggle that was deemed inevitable.

Finally, in 1914, the storm broke. War, costing millions of lives and scores of billions of dollars, swept over the earth, involving nation after nation in the fighting and the whole world in the misery it entailed. Man, only through the bitterest suffering in all history, at last learned that if he were to hope in future to live in peace and enjoy prosperity he must recognize that his neighborhood comprised the whole world and act accordingly.

Thus came about the proposal for the league of nations. The world is taking the logical step. It is fairly on its way to a higher civilization. There may be slips backward—probably will be—but time for the great experiment is here.

Further information regarding league of nations, including pamphlets, may be obtained at the office of the Illinois state branch of the League to Enforce Peace, 342 Monadnock block, Chicago, Ill.
